About Town

And Country
By TIMOTHY T.

THIS AND THAT: Maybe the weather has decided to stay put now. The way it has been changing between winter and summer the past few weeks has just about worn me out carrying the bird bath from the yard to the garage and from the garage to the yard.

And that hydrant in the yard. During all the warm weather I've been turning it on from the stoop-leak-and-flow valve or whatever you call it because all the weather reports said a cold wave was coming and I didn't want it to freeze up overnight.

S'NUFF about the weather. Let's get to other diversified subjects.

DENNIS SPANGLER was telling me that he came to town a couple of mornings ago with an important envelope in his pocket. He got out of a car at Poplar and Main and made his rounds. Six hours later he missed the envelope and started retracing his steps of the day. And he found the envelope in the street at the busy intersection, just where he has exited from the car, the envelope unopened and unfrayed despite the heavy motor vehicle traffic over that point.

THEY HAD A SMALL FIRE at Bill Epperheimer's a few days ago. But they didn't need to call the fire department. Something shorted in the electric stove and a vessel of deep grease caught fire. The flames shot up high and Mrs. Epperheimer stood there for a moment or two, not knowing what to do.

"Put some baking soda on it, mother, put some baking soda on it, mother," son John 8, cried.

Mother hurried baking soda onto the pan of burning grease and out went the flame. Don't underestimate your eight-year-old.

I WAS TALKING with Tony Beal at the football banquet Tuesday night. His real name isn't Tony, it's Charles Nelson Beal.

How long have you had the nickname "Tony"? I asked him.

"Ever since I was a baby, just old enough to walk around," he told me.

"Well, how did you get the nickname?" I queried.

"It was like this," he said. "There was a fellow up at the bakery shop (Pankay's) where my father worked who started calling me Tony. It was the time that Two-Ton Tony Galento was boxing and he started calling me Tony when he saw me. He said I walked like Tony Galento. My parents then started calling me Tony and now everybody does."

CARL BEGGS told me that he was going to have a fine attraction at the 50-cent chicken dinner at East Leford school Saturday night from 6 to 8.

"He's another Dennis Day, only he's better looking," Carl said. Questioned further, the entertainer is John Schork, supervisor of vocal music at HTHS who really is a top singer. John also is taking a high school quartet with him to furnish music for the event.

Official Hurt Slightly by Thrown Pistol

Would-Be Assassin Arrested by Police During Shooting

TEHRAN, Iran — A would-be assassin failed in an attempt to shoot and kill Iranian Premier Hossain Ala today. But he slightly injured the premier in the neck when he threw his pistol at the premier in despair.

The assailant was arrested immediately.

Ala appeared unperturbed by the incident. He had a cup of tea before going to a hospital and permitting doctors to dress his superficial wound.

Then he called a cabinet meeting for tonight to discuss tightening his personal security measures, while police questioned his attacker.

Gen. Alavi Moghadem, chief of police, confirmed that Ala was not shot, as some reports erroneously said. Moghadem said Ala was nicked by the pistol itself when the would-be killer threw it at him.

Fanatic Suspect

The would-be assassin was identified as Mozaffar Zolghadr, a 35-year-old painter. He was suspected of being a Moslem fanatic of the Fadayin Islam, possibly angered by Iran's decision to join the Western-sponsored Baghdad Pact.

He lurked with a throng inside Tehran mosque when Ala and his aides entered to pray at a memorial service.

Suddenly Zolghadr stepped forward and levelled a pistol at the premier.

Two police officers flanking the prime minister saw the gun at the same moment and leaped for it. A shot rang out. But officers had struck the assailant's hand and the bullet went wild.

Zolghadr, who was standing within point-blank range of Ala, slammed the pistol against the prime minister's neck just as the police and bystanders swarmed upon him.

A trickle of blood flowed down Ala's neck.

Brother, Sister, Baby Girl Die as Fire Sweeps Home

CHICAGO — A brother, sister, and baby girl were killed early today when fire swept their home and their bodies were brought to the hospital where their mother was on duty as a nurse.

The dead were identified as Louis Koller, 19, his sister, Betty Ann, 15, and their 4-month-old half-sister, Catherine Eileen Killips.

Jack Killips, 46, the stepfather of the two older children and father of the youngest, was severely burned and was in critical condition at the Little Company of Mary hospital, where his wife is a nurse.

The three younger persons were all killed by smoke inhalation. Philip Koller, 14, the only person to escape the fire, told police that his older brother had died trying to save the others.

Geneva Failure Will Not Affect Defense Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — A tax cut still is likely next year despite the failure at Geneva.

This became evident Wednesday when Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson told newsmen that failure to settle cold war problems there will have "little or no effect" on America's defense program. He said the program is not affected by periodic "ups and downs" in international relations.

Wilson made it clear that defense spending will continue at about the present level — some $34,500,000,000 a year.

That means the administration still can hope for a balanced budget — based on greatly increasing revenues — and its attendant tax cut next year. Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey has stated flatly that tax relief must hinge on a balanced budget.

An administration tax expert agreed with Wilson that nothing has changed toward the budget and spending, particularly for defense or foreign aid, simply because Geneva was a flop.

He said the present defense program is geared for the "long pull."

Congressional sources said they believe prospects for balancing the budget this fiscal year are good. They said prosperity is the key because it's producing terrific corporate profits and individual incomes. These will boost tax revenue for fiscal 1956 much higher than the administration forecast in January and considerably higher than its August prediction.

Although Humphrey has forecast a deficit of $1,400,000,000, many experts believe increased revenues may close that gap. Humphrey has said he hopes the revenues plus economies may do the trick. He may have to depend on increased revenues alone.

Harrisburg Girl Scout Leaders' Club Formed

At a meeting held at the Public Library Tuesday afternoon, the Harrisburg Girl Scout Leaders' club was formed. The officers elected were Mrs. J. P. Robinson, chairman, and Mrs. James R. Hunter, secretary.

The two outstanding topics under discussion were a Girl Scout camp site, and the possibility of affiliating the Girl Scout organization of this area with that of the King Coal area.

Mrs. James Wells, of Eldorado, the cookie representative, was present and passed around samples of the kinds of cookies the Girl Scouts will sell this year. Mrs. Wells requested that each troop leader contact her no later than Jan. 1 at Eldorado 359W, and state the number of boxes needed.

Plans were made for a cook-out at Lake Harrisburg, Dec. 6, to which the Eldorado Girl Scout Leaders are invited.

Those present at the Tuesday meeting of the Harrisburg Girl Scout Leaders' club were Mrs. Kenneth Capel, Mrs. Ralph Billman, Mrs. Faye Owen, Mrs. Leland Cutting, Mrs. Claude Piersall, Mrs. David Cox, Mrs. Preston Coker, Mrs. Ruth Durham, Mrs. James R. Hunter, Mrs. J. P. Robinson, Mrs. George L. Lands, Mrs. Willard Wiley, Mrs. Joe Hollingsworth, Mrs. Kenneth Kline, and a guest, Mrs. James Wells.

Uranium Hunters Open Land Rush In Wyoming Area

Brave Bitter Sub-Zero Cold in Pumpkin Buttes Region

PUMPKIN BUTTES, Wyo. — Hundreds of uranium prospectors charged into the frozen Pumpkin Buttes country today, opening a land rush which law officers feared would bring frontier-type violence to northeastern Wyoming.

More than 300 prospectors, bundled against the bitter sub-zero cold, left their trailers, tents and camp fires at the edge of the Pumpkin Buttes strip at 11 a. m. EST.

The land was thrown open to prospectors to end much of the bitter dispute between prospectors and ranchers. But more court battles were expected to result from new conflicts over claim jumping.

The 46,449 acres of public land around Pumpkin Buttes, believed to contain some valuable commercial uranium ore, was closed by the Atomic Energy Commission in 1952 because ranchers raised such strong protests. They were determined to defend the tender spring range grass while the uranium hunters were just as determined to lay their claims.

The federal government, at state request, set a scheduled land rush back from May 3, 1955, to allow tempers to calm.

Wyoming authorities feared that claim-jumping disputes might be settled on the spot with fists or guns.

Highway Patrol Capt. R. O. Gallo way had eight patrol cars in the area to reinforce Campbell County Sheriff Ted Holdeman. Both were frankly worried that the prospectors would prove too much for the officers.

Ranchers in the area, who hold grazing leases on 38,620 acres of the land, threatened to protect their interests with rifles last spring. So the land rush was postponed until today, when the range is now swept and barren of grass. The temperature dropped below zero during the night, but between 300 and 400 prospectors braved the cold in sleeping bags and the shelter of pickup trucks to be ready for the rush.

Whether there is any appreciable amount of uranium in the Pumpkin Buttes country is not known. Some experts have said the land has "fabulous" potential value. Others said it was "worthless."

2 Youths Admit Participating in Local Burglaries

Two local youths, 13 and 15 years old, last night admitted to Chief of Police Ross Lane and Patrolman Pat Atkinson that they participated in recent burglaries of the Darnell grocery on West Poplar street, Brownie's Army store and the Horace Mann school.

The two admitted entering Horace Mann school at 6 p. m. Oct. 31, taking five boxes of chalk. Then they went to the Army store on Elm street, where they broke out a rear window. They said the older boy entered while the younger one watched from the outside. Stolen were five hunting knives and 10 pocket knives.

The two confessed to the officers that around 7:15 p. m. Tuesday of this week the older boy entered the Darnell grocery by crawling through an exhaust fan from the outside, and opened the rear door from the inside.

The younger boy then went across the street to stand watch. He was to give a warning by flashing his flashlight three times if he saw police coming.

Inside the store, they confessed the older boy took eight packages of cigarettes, one box of gum, several loose packages of gum, and a gum ball machine that also contained trinkets. They took this machine to a nearby building where they broke the glass. They could not get the money compartment open, they said.

Cold Wave Lashes Midwest; Gale Winds Hit Chicago, Michigan

The worst blast hit Michigan, where gale-force 70-mile-per-hour winds accounted for the death of two Detroit men. One was killed when the wind toppled a 30-foot wall on him, and the other perished when a sheet of steel was

Mistakes Sewer for Fuel Pipe, Dumps 800 Gallons of Oil

WYNNEWOOD, Pa. (AP) — An oil truck driver mistook a storm sewer opening for a restaurant fuel pipe here Wednesday.

Eight hundred gallons of oil were pumped into the sewer and overflowed on to a well travelled street.

Before two fire companies could flush the oil away, scores of motorists experienced hair-raising, half block slides. One car skidded into a vacant lot and hit a "for sale" sign.

Three Doctors Claim New Blood Test for Cancer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three Ohio doctors report they have developed a new blood test for detecting cancer which has proved at least 90 per cent accurate in more than 1,700 cases.

The test is based on thickening of blood plasma. It can disclose evidence of early cancer as well as hidden types of the disease, the report said.

The studies were made by Drs. James A. Quinn, Stanley A. Katz and Arthur E. Rappaport of the department of pathology and laboratories of the Youngstown Hospital Assn., Youngstown, Ohio.

Their findings were reported Wednesday in the current issue of the American Journal of Clinical Pathology.

The National Cancer Institute, a government agency, announced here that it has reached no conclusions on the test. But it said it is now evaluating the report.

IAA Favors Lower Limit on Price Supports

CHICAGO (AP) — The Illinois Agricultural Assn., largest state farm bureau in the nation, went on record today in favor of lowering minimum federal price supports on basic farm crops.

Delegates to the IAA's 41st annual meeting sought approval of a national farm policy resolution recommending legislation to change the limit of the price support range from the present 75 to 90 per cent of parity to 60 to 90 per cent.

The resolution approved after two hours of debate and minor revision expressed "serious concern" over falling farm prices, but declared that "farm commodity prices cannot be successfully supported over long periods at a level above that established by the normal functioning of supply and demand."

"Government purchase and storage of farm commodities do not substitute for markets," the IAA said.

The IAA said it believed there should be a shift in emphasis from government price supports and acreage controls on individual commodities to the establishment of a soil fertility approach to the adjustment of agricultural production.

But delegates vetoed an amendment which would have put the association on record in favor of the "soil-bank plan" proposed by Melvin Gehlbach of Lincoln, Ill., on behalf of the Soil-Bank Assn. They accepted the arguments of Russell McKee, chairman of the resolutions committee, that the IAA should not tie itself to a definite soil-bank proposal.

Two Men Blame Each Other for Shooting at Harco

One man filed charges against another and the second said he was planning to file charges against the first as a result of a shooting episode at Harco about two weeks ago.

Charged with assault with intent to murder was H. D. Malone, who was released under $5,000 bond. He was arrested by county officers upon complaint of George Goblen, who suffered gunshot wounds. Malone this morning said he planned to sign complaints against Goblen.

County officers said that the shooting occurred about two weeks ago but that they were not informed of the incident. In fact, they said, Goblen left immediately after the affair for northern Indiana without reporting the shooting to any officers.

When he entered an Indiana hospital for treatment, the hospital notified officers there and word was sent to this county.

Goblen then returned and signed his complaint.

Both men, officers said, blame the other for the incident. Malone told officers that Goblen shot at him first. Goblen said he was having a party at the same house in Harco where Dallas Hale was shot and killed about three years ago. He said that Malone came in uninvited and that one thing led to another until the shooting resulted.

Too Early to Decide on Tax Cut, Hughes Says

Dulles Arrival Delayed by Emergency Landing

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Budget Director Rowland H. Hughes told President Eisenhower today he has high hopes of balancing the budget this year but that it's too early to say whether taxes can be cut.

Hughes made the optimistic report as the President, smiling and chipper, plunged into his hardest work day since his heart attack Sept. 24.

Mr. Eisenhower's physicians announced after a morning examination that their patient is progressing "most satisfactorily" in his convalescence and is up to his increased duties.

The President started off his work day with a 40-minute conference with Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks who gave him a cheering report on the state of the nation's economy. Weeks told newsmen afterward that the administration is leaning toward a pay-as-you-go highway building program instead of the bond-financing plan which failed in Congress this year.

Dulles Arrives Today

Mr. Eisenhower then conferred for an hour with Hughes. When he drove back to his farm at noon, he had put in the longest uninterrupted work session since his illness.

Later this afternoon, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was due from Geneva to report on the failure of the Big Four foreign ministers meeting. Dulles' arrival time was set back somewhat, however, when his plane had to make an emergency landing at Bermuda after an engine failure.

Hughes said the news of his meeting with the President was that "we still hope to balance the budget" and that "this will not be done in any way at the expense of military strength and power."

Hughes said his own feeling is that taxes are too high but he emphasized "nobody can give any assurances" regarding a tax cut at this stage. The administration has indicated it might favor a tax cut if the budget is balanced.

Sound Military Defense

Hughes said the failure of the Big Four conference will have no more effect on the administration's military spending plan than did the Geneva summit conference last July. He said the administration is building a "sound, long-range" military defense which is not subject to "day-to-day shifts in diplomacy."

Hughes said the administration hopes to balance this year's budget as the result of increased government "savings" and increased revenues resulting from national prosperity.

There were to be no new X-rays of the President's chest. White House Press Secretary James Hagerty said these would await Mr. Eisenhower's next visit to Washington sometime in early December.

Today's meeting with Hughes was the President's first face-to-face conference with his budget director on the fiscal picture for 1956-57. It was regarded as the first of a series of similar meetings before the budget is whipped into final shape sometime in late December.

The Republicans badly want a tax cut before next year's elections. But the President may decide on some increases in the budget as a result of the return to a cold war status in relations with Russia.

U. S. Studies Israel Plea for Defense Weapons

WASHINGTON — The United States may be willing to meet Israel's request for defense weapons at bargain prices, administration sources hinted today.

They said three months ago the United States would have rejected any Israeli request for arms at discount prices. But the multi-million-dollar Soviet bloc arms shipment to Egypt has placed a whole new complexion on the question, officials said.

Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban formally presented the United States with a list of anti-jet, anti-submarine and other defense weapons. He told reporters Israel wants them at "the most lenient price and credit" terms.

Egyptian Ambassador Ahmed Hussein promptly warned the State Department that sale of weapons to Israel might touch off an "arms race." He said Egypt "may be compelled" to buy more weapons from Communist nations or "wherever we can get them."

The United States immediately began studying the Israeli request despite Hussein's warning. The weapons list soon will be referred to the Defense Department for its consideration and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles will be sure to study it soon after his arrival from Geneva today.

Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson told a news conference Wednesday the United States has ample stocks of any weapons Israel might need.

Permit Transfer
Of Case of Chicago Girl
Expelled by U. of I.

SPRINGFIELD — The Illinois Supreme Court today allowed a motion by the University of Illinois board of trustees to transfer the case of a Chicago girl expelled from medical school to the 1st District Appellate Court.

The case involves Patricia Bluet who was expelled from the U. of I. Medical School at Chicago for allegedly getting help in examinations.

Miss Bluet had appealed the case from the Cook County Circuit Court. The trustees contended the appeal should have gone first to the Appellate Court.

PETER EDSON'S Washington News Notebook

Washington Press Corps Sees Nixon-Herter, Stevenson-Kefauver as Top '56 Election Timber

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Eighty per cent of the Washington correspondents believe President Eisenhower will not be a candidate for re-election.

Forty-seven per cent of the newsmen believe that the Republicans cannot win the election if Ike isn't the candidate. But a close 46 per cent believe the GOP can win even if Ike doesn't run. Seven per cent won't hazard a guess on this point.

Seventy per cent of the correspondents now believe U. S. Chief Justice Earl Warren of California will not consent to become a candidate even if Eisenhower bows out. Twenty-four per cent think Warren will run. Six per cent are undecided.

But in another relatively close vote on a key question, 52 per cent of the correspondents believe the GOP National Convention will not nominate Vice President Richard M. Nixon to head the ticket if Ike doesn't run. Thirty-eight per cent believe the convention will nominate Nixon. Ten per cent express no opinion.

If the Washington press and radio corps were naming the likeliest 1956 candidates today, the tickets would be:

Democrats — Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson and Sen. Estes Kefauver.

Equality High School Notes

SKATING PARTY

PLANNED BY FFA

The F. H. A. and F. F. A. chapters at the Equality Township high school will have a joint meeting and party Monday, Nov. 28. It will be a skating party at the Harrisburg skating rink and will be followed by refreshments at the high school.

Plans for the party were announced at a recent meeting of the Future Homemakers of America. Thirty-one members of the chapter were in attendance and Bernadine Hamilton, president, was in charge of the meeting.

Eloise Aud, recreation chairman, led the group in games following the business session.

The annual bake sale of the Equality high school Future Homemakers of America netted $26.65, a considerable amount over the 1954 sale, it is reported by Nana Sisk, treasurer. The members of FFA extend their thanks to everyone who helped make the sale a success and especially thank the Equality American Legion and St. Joseph's Catholic church.

Next Tuesday, Nov. 22, the Junior class of Equality high school will present its annual play.

These are the highlights of a post-card survey just made by NEA Service for this column. The poll was compiled one year ahead of Election Day, 1956, and on the eve of President Eisenhower's return to Washington from Denver.

In all, 1955 daily newspaper, magazine, radio and television correspondents accredited to the Congressional press galleries were polled. Three hundred and thirty answered the six top political questions put to them. A 30 per cent reply is considered a good return for a fair cross section on how reporters close to the situation size up today's trends.

While the newsmen had definite yes-or-no opinions on the main political currents, they were all over the lot in naming their first, second and third choices for the likeliest presidential and vice-presidential candidates.

The only one who showed up with a clear majority lead was Governor Stevenson. He received 88 per cent first-choice votes, nine per cent second choice and two per cent third choice.

In second place, but not even close to Stevenson's total, was Gov. Averell Harriman of New York. He got five per cent first-choice, 50 per cent second-choice and 23 per cent third. Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee ran third with three per cent first-choice, 23 per cent second-choice and 30 per cent third.

Gov. FRANK J. LAUSCHE of Ohio ran a poor fourth with only two votes to head the ticket. He got seven per cent as second-choice candidate and 15 per cent third choice.

Fourteen other Democrats—too many to name here—were suggested for the Presidency. But none got more than a few scattered votes.

For the Democratic vice-presidential nomination, Sen. Kefauver came out ahead with 34 per cent first-choice votes. Gov. Frank G. Clement of Tennessee was second with nine per cent first-choice votes. Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota was third, but with only four per cent first-choice votes.

Surprisingly, Sen. John J. Sparkman of Alabama, who was Stevenson's running mate in 1952, got only three-to-five per cent of either first, second or third choice for the vice-presidency. In all, 45 Democrats were suggested for the vice-presidency. This indicates how wide open this race may be.

with only 11 per cent of the newsmen believing President Eisenhower will run for a second term, it followed naturally that only eight per cent gave him as their first choice.

Vice President Nixon led the parade to head the GOP ticket with 41 per cent first-choice votes.

Chief Justice Warren was second with 19 per cent first-choice votes. President Eisenhower was third, and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York and Sen. William Knowland of California were tied for fourth with five per cent of the first-choice votes.

Twenty-six Republicans were named as Presidential possibilities. Aside from those mentioned, none got more than four votes.

Nixon also headed the poll as likeliest vice-presidential candidate, with 17 per cent first-choice votes. Gov. Herter was next with 11 per cent first-choice votes. Harold Stassen of Minnesota and Sen. Clifford Case of New Jersey tied for third place with 3.2 per cent of first, second and third-choice votes. Nobody else showed any strength at all. Boy Baby Brings

Doctor Biggest Check

PALMYRA, Ind. — When Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Heuser were expecting their baby, they bet Dr. J. M. Johnson double or nothing it would be a girl.

In eight years of practice, Dr. Johnson has delivered 700 babies, two thirds of them boys.

When their son arrived, the Heusers gave Dr. Johnson a 6-by-3-foot check painted on plywood. It took two men to carry the check to the bank, and Dr. Johnson had to indorse it with a paint brush.

Give her your hand...by giving!

THIS LITTLE GIRL—moving from the shadow to the light—stands for the almost five million retarded children and adults who are today reaching new levels of understanding through the help of others.

This help begins, of course, with the love and understanding and patience of family and friends. But it comes, as well, from those more remote from the problem—people who realize that with continued study and support here is yet another dark frontier which can be made to yield to human concern.

You can take part in this mission by giving. What you give goes to support research that is opening new windows to the minds of these children...to aid in the development of training programs, special schools and other community services...to assist the many who cannot afford the terrible burden in cost of training and rehabilitation. The retarded need no longer be "America's forgotten children." With help, in many cases, they can become largely independent and productive; in others, their dependence can be greatly reduced. In nearly every case, some improvement can be made.

And looking immediately ahead—your contribution can help work toward the prevention of this handicap in babies yet unborn.

Is there a warmer satisfaction within the human heart than the sense of helping where help can mean so much? And is so deeply needed? Give as generously as you can, won't you?

Give thanks by giving to help retarded children.

Parents Emphasize Material Things, Girl Tells Probers

MIAMI — A pretty high school senior told the Senate subcommittee on juvenile delinquency that parents contribute to the problem of placing too much emphasis on new cars and television.

Miss Dorothea Lovejoy, 16, representing the mayor of Winter Haven, Fla., told Sens. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) Wednesday that her town has almost solved the problem.

Kefauver and his subcommittee members smiled when the pert blonde took her place among some 16 Florida mayors or their representatives in the closing session of the three-day hearing.

On the witness stand she was poised, telling the subcommittee she thought "one of the worst things is too much emphasis on material things" instead of "providing a good home and love."

"Gosh," she said, "it's terrible when you go by poor homes and see television and a new car. Some parents just don't know how to spend their money, I guess."

State Enforces New Truck Laws Despite Protests by Truckers

SPRINGFIELD — State Police Supt. Phil M. Brown said today enforcement of new truck laws requiring splash guards and turn signals started on schedule despite protests by truckers that they had not been given time to comply.

Brown said enforcement of the laws started Wednesday and he had no reports yet on the number of violators arrested. However, he said his staff informed him "there have been some arrests."

The new laws passed by the 1955 Legislature required new type splash guards on all trucks sold in the state after Sept. 1 and directional turn signals on all trucks sold after July 1.

The splash guard law also applied to replacements of present type guards and will apply to all trucks in the state after July 1, 1957.

Enforcement of the two laws was originally set for Jan. 1, 1956 to give truckers a "reasonable time" to comply. But the enforcement deadline was moved up to Nov. 15, state officials announced recently, because of mounting public concern over traffic accidents.

Brown said, "We've had a lot of protests from truckers who feel they haven't had time to get the

He said the enforcement would go ahead as scheduled. But if individual truckers, when arrested, can "prove they haven't had a chance" to get the equipment, Brown said, "we'll probably have to use some good judgment."

He pointed out that some truckers have complained their vehicles have been out of the state and could not be equipped with the signals and splash guards. However, Brown said the penalty for violations of the laws is left up to the courts.

Soviet Leaders Leave for Visit To India, Burma

MOSCOW (U.P.) — Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Soviet Communist Party leader Nikita S. Khrushchev left today by plane for a three-week swing through Southeast Asia, including state visits to India and Burma.

The Soviet leaders and their party took off from Moscow airport in two Ilyushin 14 transport planes. They are scheduled to stop first at Tashkent, one of the oldest cities in Central Asia, before continuing to New Delhi where the government of Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru was reported to have prepared an elaborate state welcome for their arrival Friday.

A small group of Eastern diplomats was at the airport to see the Soviet leaders off. No Western diplomats were present — even Swedish Ambassador Rolf Sohlman, dean of the diplomatic corps, begged off because of the hour.

Soviet officials at the airport included First Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan and Maxim Z. Zabarov.

Newsmen were kept some distance from the planes and were unable to identify members of the party accompanying Bulganin and Khrushchev. The Moscow radio said they included Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, Culture Minister N. A. Mikhailov, Gen. A. Seryov, chairman of the state security committee, and deputy ministers of foreign trade and agriculture.

Nehru and Bulganin scheduled only one formal meeting during the Russians' two week visit. The two state leaders will meet on Nov. 20, just before the Russians leave for Burma.

Jonesboro Cleans Up Wreckage Left by Storm

JONESBORO, Ill. — Residents of Jonesboro are cleaning up wreckage caused by a storm Wednesday which possibly was a small tornado.

The storm hit the southern Illinois town in the early morning hours. It blew apart two storage buildings of the Fruit Growers Package Service, damaged a number of house roofs, broke many windows, and blew down trees and telephone lines.

Mayor Fred Rixleben said no estimate had been made on the amount of damage.

Rixleben was sure the storm was a small tornado. The U. S. weather station at Cairo said today it was questionable whether the storm actually was a tornado, although the station said it would concede the point.

The weather station said there was evidence such as trees being twisted off to indicate the possibility of a tornado. But the station said sometimes wind storms that appear to be tornadoes are not.

The station said no further investigation will be made since there was no loss of life and the area affected was small.

Army to Induct More Men from Higher Mental Groups

WASHINGTON (U.P.) — The Defense Department plans to induct into the armed services more men from the higher mental groups.

The plan represents an adjustment in a system established in April, 1951. That system required each service to take a certain percentage of men from each of four mental groups established by the Defense Department.

The new policy will lessen the percentage of men the services must take from the two lowest mental categories.

"The department said the revision 'in no way effects the legal obligation' of men to serve in the military under the draft law. Defense officials said, however, the practical effect will be that fewer men with the lowest mental capabilities will be drafted.

Democrats Discuss Loyalty Pledge

CHICAGO (U.P.) — Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler today called the national committee into session and said the meeting would be closed so "delegates can express themselves more freely on a compromise 'loyalty' pledge and other subjects."

The committee first took up a credentials committee report which approved the contested choice of William C. Donaghy as the party's national committeeman from Oklahoma. It then turned to the rules committee.

The proposal for a modified "loyalty" pledge had Butler's backing. It was a compromise measure in the move to impose the choice of the party's 1956 presidential convention on all delegates.

Butler predicted the committee would approve the proposal, which is designed to settle a major dispute between Northern and Southern Democrats.

Under the plan, the seating of a convention delegate would constitute a pledge by the party's leaders of that state that the convention nominee will be placed on the ballot.

Some Democrats had pressed for a signed statement binding delegates to support the man chosen to run for president at next year's convention. Others had wanted no loyalty pledge at all.

The new proposal was regarded as a compromise between the two points of view and was drawn up by a special committee headed by Stephen A. Mitchell, former national chairman.

CHICAGO (U.P.) — The average wage-earner works four months out of the year just to square his tax bill with the Western Tax Council reports.

The council said the average earner today pays 34.4 per cent of his income in taxes to support federal, state and local governments.

Frank E. Packard, executive vice president of the council, said the increasingly large bite taken by taxes out of personal income shows the need for a constitutional amendment limiting federal income tax rates.

Packard reported that 30 state legislatures now have asked Congress to submit such a constitutional amendment to the states for ratification, and that only two more states must act to force congressional action.

He said the Western Tax Council will start work "early in 1956 when many of the legislatures convene" to get the support of two additional states.

Packard pointed out that "the biggest slice" of taxes goes to Washington.

"Under the 16th Amendment, Washington can raise income tax rate to 100 per cent and there would be no question of legality," Packard said. "This may be proper in wartime, but in peacetime we need a constitutional ceiling on federal tax rates."

Public Assistance Rolls Continue to Decline in State

SPRINGFIELD (U.P.) — Public assistance rolls continued to decline in September with a drop of 1,648 persons, the Illinois Public Aid Commission reported today.

IPAC Executive Secretary Garrett W. Keaster said the decline in the number of recipients in the state's five aid programs "has been substantial and encouraging during the past six months."

The September total of aid recipients was 272,722 and the total expenditure was $12,325,486.

The general assistance program showed the biggest decline, 2,634 persons to a September total of $4,059 and a cost of $3,123,765.

The old age and blind assistance programs also showed a decline, while the disability assistance and aid to dependent children programs showed increases.

The September totals were: old age, 94,448 persons and $5,619,316; blind and disabled, 2,233,373; aid to dependent children, 84,548 and $2,865,013; and disability assistance, 6,165 and $48,619.

New Paving Called Tougher, Cheaper

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — (U.P.) — Emmet Poston, a brick manufacturer, claims he has developed a "practically indestructible" new type of pavement that is tougher, cheaper and easier to install than concrete and other present types of road surfacing.

Poston says his "ceramic" pavement has been tested by the U. S. Navy and was shown to support more than

IHSA Insists Eight-Team Meet Will Be Called 'Sweet Sixteen'

SPRINGFIELD — The Illinois High School Assn., meeting Wednesday to arrange its new eight-team basketball tournament finals, said the meet will still be called the "Sweet Sixteen."

From 1934 through 1935, 15 winners of downstate sectional rounds and the Chicago public league champion have gone to Huff Gymnasium at the University of Illinois for the "Sweet Sixteen" finals.

But the IHSA will climax the 1936 tournament with the 16 sectional winners playing at eight scattered sites, and the eight winners of these games going to Huff Gym.

After the meeting with principals and business managers of the host schools, Albert Willis, IHSA chairman, said the eight "first round finals" or post-sectional sites will be Northwestern and Bradley University fieldhouses, Springfield Army with Springfield High the host, and Moline, Decatur, Hinsdale, Salem and West Frankfort high school gymnasiums.

Still "Sweet Sixteen" Willis was asked what title the IHSA had picked for the eight-team affair at Champaign. "It's still the 'Sweet Sixteen,'" Willis said.

It was pointed out sports writers and announcers are already talking of the "Elite Eight" and the "V for Victory Eight," and the IHSA had better name the tournament while it had a chance.

"It's still the 'Sweet Sixteen,'" an IHSA member insisted. Let it be noted then, that Willis and the others have been warned of the chaos that may ensue. They have opened the floodgates to what may develop into one of the state's sports pages, biggest name-calling contests ever on the "Sweet Sixteen."

They have declared open season When thousands of fans are sitting battered and dazed in the wake of adjectives flowing from the typewriters and lips of sports writers, then perhaps they will strive to bring order. It will be too late.

So if this tournament is to be named, for the gods, we suggest "Embraceable, Endearing or Enchanting Eight."

Coaches may like the "Enormous Eight," educators the "Enlightened Eight" or "Educated Eight," winners the "Invincible Eight," losers the "Erratic Eight" or "Exasperating Eight."

Fans may like the "Expert," "Evasive" or "Errorless Eight." In the locker rooms on victory night they will be the "Elated Eight," while to other schools they may be the "Envid Eight."

And to those who wanted the "Sweet Sixteen" forever, they now can look forward only to the "Endless (or perhaps Eternal) eight."

Junior High Cagers Open Home Season

The Harrisburg Junior high school basketball team opens its home season today, meeting Norris City.

There will be two games, the first one starting at 6:30 p. m. and the eighth grade game is listed for 7:45.

Looking At Sports

By BILL MELTON

All season Harrisburg's Bull Dogs were lauded by both friend and foe as a rugged defensive unit—one of the very best—but a team weak in the scoring department.

And the record of games played during the just past season bears out the fact that Harrisburg was tough to score against, but somewhat weak itself in scoring.

Now comes the All-South Seven selections and FOUR Bull Dogs are placed on the first offensive team and only ONE Harrisburger makes the first defensive team.

Joe Dorris was at an end, Ken Price a tackle, Richard Hess a guard and Tony Beal a back on the all-conference offensive team. Hess also made the all-star defensive team.

Fullback was the strong point of backfields throughout the South Seven, according to the all-star selections with five of the seven fullbacks in the conference being placed on either the first or second offensive teams.

Charles Hamilton of Harrisburg, Larry McGreevey, all senior fullbacks, made the first team and Benton's Fredette and Gully of Marion, fullbacks, were placed on the second team.

Jim McPherson, quarterback from Herrin, and Beal were the only unanimous choices for the first team and Beal and Joe Wendryski, center from West Frankfort, were the only two to repeat from last year's first team.

Bull Pup News! The Pups completed their season with a 5-2-1 mark and in South Seven play had a record of 3-2-1.

Carrier Mills high school gym has been remodeled with additional goals erected on the sides to make it possible to have two practice games going on at one time.

Two retractable goals have just been installed in the south part of the gym. The goals in the north end are permanent type that were used when the regular playing floor extended east and west before the gym was enlarged and changed a couple of years ago.

These will be replaced one of these days with goals that can be raised when not in use. Cross courts have been lined out and more boys can be in action, either during PE classes in practice.

The school also has purchased a new 16-foot platform ladder to use in fixing the scoreboard or changing lights.

And while on the subject of CM, might mention that Coach Claude Shelton, who is the driving instructor, is now holding classes in a brand new 1936 Chevrolet. The drivers training automobile at Carrier Mills high school is made available by O'Keefe Motors.

Ford Peebles, well known basketball official from Murphysboro, will be back in the whistle-blowing business soon according to reports after an illness that sidelined him. Peebles, scheduled to team with McCoskey in calling the Mound City-at-Carrier Mills game last Thursday, suffered an illness a week ago that hospitalized him.

Reports are that the attack was pleurisy, painful but usually not serious, and Peebles will be back in the officiating business before long.

Harold, Not Donald

It was Harold Beal, not Donald, as was stated in the HTHS football banquet story yesterday, who received a freshman football letter during the presentation of awards.

White Sox to Operate Without General Manager

CHICAGO — The Chicago White Sox will operate without a general manager to succeed Frank C. Lane, Mrs. Grace Comiskey said today following the annual meeting of the board of directors.

Instead, Mrs. Comiskey announced, her son, Charles A. Comiskey, and her son-in-law, John D. Rigney, a former White Sox pitcher, both vice presidents of the team, would "jointly conduct the affairs of the White Sox."

Announcement of the decision followed a stockholders meeting which re-elected the board of directors. The directors then named Mrs. Comiskey as president, Charles as vice president, and Mrs. Dorothy Comiskey Rigney as secretary. All held the same positions previously.

Campbell Sets New World Record of 216.2 MPH in Jet-Propelled Bluebird II

BOULDER CITY, Nev. — British speedboat king Donald Campbell today already was thinking about trying to better the new world's record mark of 216.2 miles an hour he set Wednesday in the jet-propelled Bluebird II.

"But I'd rather not talk too much about that now," he said, adding another try would have to wait until next year.

Campbell, 34-year-old son of the late Sir Malcolm Campbell whose original Bluebird held the world speedboat record from 1937 until 1949, pushed his craft to the "fantastic" speed of 229.5 miles an hour on Lake Mead Wednesday just before the waters became too choppy for such a run. The roughness held him to 193.1 miles an hour on the return run.

But his average was nearly 14 miles an hour faster than his record of 202.32 set last July at Lake Ullswater, England.

He said the return trip was so rough "it nearly tore any head off."

Campbell faced almost certain death had anything gone wrong during the high speed runs. John Cobb, another British speed demon, was killed in Scotland three years ago when his boat disintegrated after reaching 206.8 miles an hour. Mario Verga, of Italy, was killed last year just before reaching 200 miles an hour.

Campbell was confident, however, because of his own previous record mark and speeds of 200 miles an hour or better attained in his trials here, during which he vowed he would set a new mark "or bust."

Wednesday's first run cracking the "water barrier" of 200 miles an hour was called "fantastic" by chief timer Kent Hitchcock.

The two-and-a-half ton speedboat moved over the course smoothly on the east-west trip, but on the return, after a quick refueling, the Bluebird bucked and twisted over the rising swells.

Campbell said he was thinking about "some modifications that might make the Bluebird a little faster." He said he would be trying to get such ideas "on the drawing board" during the winter months ahead after he returns to England.

White Sox to Operate Without General Manager

CHICAGO — The Chicago White Sox will operate without a general manager to succeed Frank C. Lane, Mrs. Grace Comiskey said today following the annual meeting of the board of directors.

Instead, Mrs. Comiskey announced, her son, Charles A. Comiskey, and her son-in-law, John D. Rigney, a former White Sox pitcher, both vice presidents of the team, would "jointly conduct the affairs of the White Sox."

Announcement of the decision followed a stockholders meeting which re-elected the board of directors. The directors then named Mrs. Comiskey as president, Charles as vice president, and Mrs. Dorothy Comiskey Rigney as secretary. All held the same positions previously.

The board then established a new office of vice president and elected Rigney to the job. Other directors re-elected were Roy Egan and Tom Sheehan, attorneys for the team and the Comiskey family.

Army Leads in Grid Defense

NEW YORK — If you still haven't made up your mind whether you like Army or Navy in the big game, here's some information that might help you decide.

Army has the stronger defense. As a matter of fact, the Cadets have the finest defense of any major college football team in the country. But Navy is right up close in the No. 2 spot.

The Black Knights of West Point lead the nation in total defense with an average yield of 139.5 yards per game. They have yielded only 1,116 yards in eight games this season, according to the NCAA Service Bureau.

Navy, which has the traditional date with Army in Philadelphia, Nov. 26, has given up an average of 169 yards per game, having yielded a total of 1,352 yards in eight games. Maryland ranks third in total defense with an average of 174.7 yards in nine games while Auburn is fourth with a 181.5 average and Holy Cross fifth with 186.5.

The Cadets also head the rushing defense department. They have given up only 578 yards on the ground for an average of 72.3 yards per game. Navy ranks no better than eighth in this category with a 120.6 average.

Maryland follows Army in rushing defense with a 76.7 figure while Holy Cross is third with 82.9, Auburn fourth with 103.0 and Oklahoma fifth with 110.1.

Navy, which had the best pass defense average in the country until Columbia completed 18 out of 38 attempts for 161 yards Saturday, dropped to fourth spot in that department this week. Florida took over the lead with an average of 43.8 yards yielded through the air, followed by George Washington with 45.0 and Nebraska with 45.6.

Navy has now given up an average of 48.4 yards per game through the air.

Michigan State leads in punting with a kick of 42.1 yards. Tennessee is second with 41.7 and Mississippi third with 39.7.

Ty Cobb Wins Law Suit from Wealthy Rancher

OROVILLE, Calif. — Ty Cobb, who hit, ran and fought his way into baseball immortality, won a $50,000 law suit Wednesday from a wealthy rice rancher who claimed he was injured by the "Georgia Peach" in a fight over a dinner check.

A 9-3 vote in favor of Cobb was returned by a jury after 5½ hours of deliberations.

Albert D. Felts, a former player with the San Francisco Seals, charged that Cobb, 69, attacked him because of anger over being stuck with a dinner check.

Cobb testified to holdings of some three million dollars and said he happily paid the check because "I was host." Cobb claimed Felts attacked him.

Savings, Loan Figures on Rise

CHICAGO (AP)—Assets of savings and loan associations have more than trebled in the years since World War II, according to U. S. Savings and Loan League.

Assets have doubled in the past five years, the league said, and in 1954 alone, increased by $4,500,000,000, or 18.2 per cent. At the year's end they totaled $31,500,000,000.

Savings associations now are receiving a larger share of the liquid savings of the American public than any other type of financial institution, the league said.

Total savings deposits at the end of last year were $27,300,000,000, a gain of 20 per cent over the total at the start of the year.

Savings associations also are the biggest single source of home mortgage funds, the league said, currently financing 36 per cent of all home purchase each year.

Last year they loaned almost $9,000,000,000 for the purchase of homes, about 15.5 per cent more than in 1953.

Five Missing Teen-Age Boys Found By Police

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Police reported today they have found the last of five teen-aged boys who disappeared from their homes in the Chicago suburb of Stickney.

Gary Horton, 13, was arrested Wednesday along with an unidentified Cicero youth when police spotted them in a car stolen at Kankakee.

Police said the boys told them they ran away from home "just to be doing something." They said they were on their way to St. Louis to find jobs.

The two youths were held in city prison awaiting action by a probation officer.

Four other Stickney youths were found unharmed Wednesday hitchhiking near here.

The boys left their homes at a time when Chicago was still jittery over the unsolved slayings of three other boys a month ago.

The Cook County sheriff's office said that state police picked up the four missing boys, all 15-year-olds, hitchhiking southward near Springfield.

The four had been missing since

3:30 p. m. Tuesday. The youths are Stanley Mills, Philip Masconi, Robert Hale and William Lynch.

Meanwhile, police continued their search for the killers of Robert Peterson, 13, John Schuessler, 13, and his brother, Anton Jr., 11, whose bodies were found in a forest preserve ditch Oct. 18.

"I KNOW HOW IMPORTANT IT IS TO BUY AND USE CHRISTMAS SEALS," says Miss Mary Sue Cadman, Evanston, who was named the most beautiful tuberculosis patient in Illinois in a contest early this year. She was chosen winner by judges Groucho Marx, Bert Parks, Don McNeill, and Russ Meyer, from candidates entered by tuberculosis sanatoria throughout the state. The Saline County Tuberculosis association helped support the contest, which is designed to prove that a tuberculosis patient may very well appear to be healthy. Miss Cadman, now returned to her former job as a secretary, was a patient for only three months. "Christmas Seal contributions have played an important part in making possible the discovery of new drugs to shorten the TB patient's term of treatment in a sanatorium," said Mrs. Naida Seright Upchurch, chairman of the Saline county campaign. "And the Christmas Seals have an even more important mission this year," she added. "Medical research programs on tuberculosis are being accelerated to hasten the day when all homes will be safe from this disease." Christmas Seal letters, mailed by the Saline County Tuberculosis association, will begin arriving at local homes today.

Annual WSCS Bazaar Dec. 2 at Wesley Center

The annual bazaar of the Women's Society for Christian Service—the first such bazaar since the completion of the Methodist church buildings—will be held from 8 a. m. to 6:30 p. m. Friday, Dec. 2, in Wesley center, with a concentrated effort being made to have this year's affair an outstanding event because of the new surroundings.

Work has been going on in the handicraft department since Oct. 1, gathering handmade items ready for the big sale.

In addition to the selling departments, there will be food served at three periods during the day. Persons may buy coffee and rolls until 11 a. m. Lunch will be served from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m. and there will be a turkey dinner from 5 to 6:30 p. m.

There will be all the items familiar to bazaarers—aprons, table mats, center pieces, beaded felt items, cakes, pies, bread, candies and white elephants.

Chairmen of the various departments:

Food — Mrs. Verl Youngs, general chairman, with Mrs. Don Williams in charge of the breakfast, Mrs. Lilly Wing in charge of the

Forecaster of 50 Years Ago Called the Turn

POTSDAM, N. Y. — (AP) — A forecaster who made predictions 55 years ago apparently knew what he was talking about.

According to an old St. Lawrence County almanac, the summer of 1955 would be the "hottest of the century." It was.

And the forecaster said the winter of 1955 will be "mild."

The forecasts, written for the almanac by a man named Dunne of the meteorologist bureau in Montgomery, Ala., cover the 20th century.

Chicago City Treasurer Sachs Added to List of Demo Candidates

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (Special)—The list of Democratic candidates for Illinois offices to be voted on statewide has a new name. It is that of Chicago City Treasurer Morris B. (amateur hour) Sachs, who ran ahead of Mayor Richard J. Daley in last spring's Chicago city election. He says he hopes to get the organization endorsement for governor but if not, will run any way.

Daley, head of the Chicago Democratic organization, maintains a diplomatic silence. He says the organization will meet next month to pick candidates for governor, U. S. senator and other state offices. He said "whoever the gubernatorial candidate is he will be the kind the people of Illinois will be proud to vote for." Sachs, a wealthy Chicago clothier, says he will campaign "to serve with honor."

Meanwhile Cook County Treasurer Herbert C. Paschen, Chicago, presses his unofficial campaign for the party gubernatorial nomination. He is booked ahead for appearances at which he makes known his views on state government. He has yet to state whether he is seeking the office but has indicated privately he will make the race if he gets the support of Daley and other Chicago leaders.

Sachs has acquired prominence over the years through his amateur hour broadcasting and telecasting. He is the only one who has openly stated he wants the nomination for governor, although the names of others have been listed by admirers—such as Paschen's; Cook State's Atty. John Gutknecht; former Secretary of State Edward J. Barrett; Cook Sheriff Joseph Lohman; and Stephen Mitchell.

The latter is former chairman of the Democrat National Committee and he has made a number of downstate speeches and is still doing it. He has the support of former Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson. In addition to governor he has been mentioned for U. S. senator but faces an obstacle by reason of the fact that custom requires that the senatorship go to downstate this time.

Sachs packs some formidable independent support among the Democrats but is sure to draw opposition from the regular Democrat professionals. He has installed a strict economy policy since taking the city treasurer office, a policy which cost several big Democrat precinct captains their jobs. Supporters include Benjamin S. Adamowski and former Chicago Mayor Martin H. Kennelly.

In the Chicago city primary he ran on a slate headed by Kennelly and opposed to Daley. He lost but when his opponent was dumped because of difficulties with the Chicago Bar Association the organization took him and his election plurality was bigger than Daley's. He came to this country from Lithuania as a penniless orphan and now has two large clothing stores.

Although Barrett announced some time back he would not be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, some of his adherents insist he will submit to a draft and are pressing in that direction. Actually when Barrett said he was not a candidate he did so in good faith but because he is recognized as the strongest Democrat downstate, efforts are being continued to get him to run.

Next to Barrett Paschen appears the strongest Democrat in downstate. He has a good acquaintance there because of his campaign for lieutenant governor in 1952. He carried Chicago and Cook county by 95,828 but lost downstate by 344,619 as compared with the 426,888 by which Stevenson lost the state to General Eisenhower. Paschen carried St. Clair county by 21,252; Madison by 15,668; and six other downstate counties by much smaller pluralities.

First Democrat to announce for U. S. Senator is State Sen. James W. Gray, East St. Louis. Gray qualified his announcement with the provision that if he does run it will have to be with organization endorsement. Gray is 40, married and has three children. He seeks the nomination against Republican incumbent Everett M. Dirksen, Pekin, who already has declared his intention of seeking another term.

The Democrat field for senator lost one candidate — Vincent Y. Dallman, Springfield editor, last week. He had downstate support including that of State Rep. Paul Powell, Vienna, a former Illinois House speaker, but Dallman, 82, said he preferred to act as an editor. Editorially he is for Powell for senator and for Mitchell for governor.

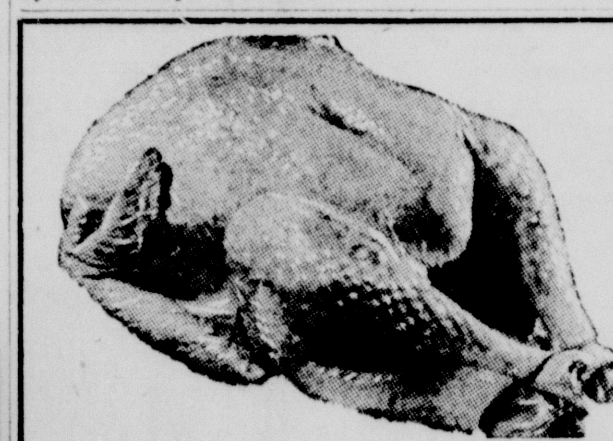

As Dallman dropped out of the running some support appeared to be gathering for Cong. Melvin Price, also of East St. Louis and a former newspaper reporter. Mayor Daley has denied he asked Price to run, but said he regarded him as having an "open mind" toward the senate race and that he would be glad to have Price appear before the party slate-making committee here next month.

Daley said he expected the committee to meet about Dec. 15 but that no final decision would be taken until after New Year's Day. He says he favors an open primary. Two other Democrats whose names have been mentioned for senator are State Rep. Richard Stengel, Rock Island, said to have the support of Stevenson and Chicago bigwigs; and former U. S. Sen. Scott W. Lucas, Havana.

The campaign of Michael J. Howlett, Chicago, for the Democratic nomination for Secretary of State, was given a boost with the reported statement by U. S. Sen. Paul Douglas, Chicago, that he is avoiding efforts to have him declare as between Stengel and Lucas for senator, in order to be free to help Howlett who managed Douglas' 1954 campaign for reelection.

Stratton has written U. S. Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell asking intervention of the federal government. He told Brownell an Illinois citizen was kidnapped and murdered and that he wants an investigation of possible violation of the rights of an Illinois citizen. A body identified as Till's was found after a Negro youth allegedly made remarks and wolf whistles at a white woman.

Knowland is Nixon Threat

Editorial — By BRUCE BLOSSAT
No one has been eager than Senator Knowland of California about what he might do politically if President Eisenhower decides not to run in 1956. But now we have the first informed report that the Californian may become a presidential candidate.

Should this come to pass, it would be an event of substantial significance to the Republican party. For Knowland's bid would cut directly across the presidential aspirations of his fellow Californian, Vice President Nixon, who is acknowledged to be the leading GOP prospect right now.

According to the New York Times, it is possible to "speculate with confidence" that in the event of Mr. Eisenhower's withdrawal Knowland would declare no later than March 7 that he intends to enter the presidential primary in California.

He would do this as a serious candidate, not as a "favorite son" merely trying to hold the California delegation for another.

There are only two conceivable ways in which Knowland could take this step. He could put up a slate of delegates of his own regardless of what Gov. Goodwin Knight does. Or he could work out an arrangement by which he and the governor would collaborate in selecting a slate.

In the latter case, the slate might be pledged to Knowland at the outset or it might be nominally pledged to Knight with the understanding that the delegates would go for Knowland after one ballot. No one who doesn't know well the minds of Knowland and Knight can say whether either such plan is a practical possibility.

But if Knowland, with or without the aid of Governor Knight, could make a hard primary drive in California, it would mean nothing but trouble for Nixon. As has been so often said, the vice president could not hope to take the nomination if he could not go into the GOP convention with full home state support.

Nixon's men in California, working under wraps at this stage, are confident they can bowl over Knight if it should come to a Nixon-Knight showdown. Knowland's entry into the lists would, however, complicate the picture.

If all three men put in primary slates, Nixon, as the man with the head start, might be the chief beneficiary from the divided voting. But not necessarily. Three-cornered races often hold surprises.

If Nixon had to buck a Knight-Knowland combine with a slate of his own, he might find the going very tough.

A great catalogue of "ifs," all this. But it illustrates well the uncertainty that a Knowland candidacy would throw over Nixon's prospects in the 1956 Republican campaign.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON SAYS:
Sen Morse Takes GOP Manure Spreader In Stride; Bank-Merger Trend Worries Economists; U. S. Comptroller Gidney Issuing Wholesale Approvals.

WASHINGTON. — The manure spreader has become the symbol in the Oregon political campaign, which already has started in the fight over re-election of Sen. Wayne Morse, Democrat.

The other day, Morse arrived at Myrtle Point, Ore., to speak before the Rotary club of which he was once state president. Outside the hotel stood a brand new red manure spreader, flaunting a sign: "Welcome Wayne Morse."

It had been placed there by his GOP critics, many of them bitter because he left the Republican party.

Whether they agree with Morse or not, his colleagues in the Senate have always found him one of the most resourceful men on Capitol Hill. He immediately went up to the manure spreader, called to some of the officers of Rotary, and had his picture taken with them and the manure spreader.

Later, called upon to speak, the senator said:

"I realize that that manure spreader was placed outside to embarrass me. They even misspelled the name to try to embarrass me. But that manure spreader is a symbol—not of embarrassment to me but of farm prosperity. It's a symbol my old Republican friends have forgotten. It used to hold pay dirt for the farmer. But that spreader outside had no pay dirt in it.

"That's what I want to talk about today," Morse continued, "the relation between farm income and your cash register."

He launched into a powerful diagnosis of how the Eisenhower administration had let down the farmers.

After it was over, a Republican friend came up to him.

"Gee, Wayne," he said, "we never should have put that manure spreader out there. Without it you wouldn't have let loose on farm problems."

EIG BANK MERGERS

More and more banks are merging all over the nation, including some of the biggest in the country.

There were 116 mergers in 1953, a total of 200 in 1954, and this year it is estimated there will be 350. In New York City alone there have been 17 mergers in the last seven years.

The trend has panicked many economists, who see a trend toward the centralized control typical of European banking. In England, for example, five banks own 75 per cent of all deposits, consequently hold life-and-death power in many cases over businessmen who need loans.

Latest merger: The Manufacturers National Bank of Detroit with deposits of $601,000,000 and the Industrial National Bank of Detroit with deposits of $155,000,000—the biggest merger of national banks since the earlier spate of consolidations in New York. Another billion-dollar deal involving state banks is also slated in Philadelphia this month.

Comptroller of the Currency Ray M. Gidney, who has to OK these mergers, has unlimited power to block them, but has done so on only one occasion — when two small banks in a southern town of 12,000 population were involved.

Gidney is the personal appointee of Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey, was his friend and neighbor in Cleveland before they joined the Eisenhower administration. Humphrey operated some of the biggest coal, iron, steel and biscuit companies in the nation before he became secretary of the treasury.

Called on the carpet by Congressman Celler of Brooklyn last spring to explain to Congress why he hadn't disapproved a single merger up to that time, Comptroller Gidney insisted he was applying the "spirit" of antitrust laws to proposed mergers, even though the laws didn't always apply to banks.

Nevertheless, Gidney admitted that the bank examiners who check up on proposed mergers had not been issued "anything specific" in the way of instructions, also that no Justice Department guidance had been sought by him as to what constitutes a threat to competition.

But despite his assurances to Congress, he has continued approving mergers wholesale.

Key to Gidney's policy is his peculiar conception of what constitutes competition. Asked by counsel Herb Maletz whether the merger of two banks doesn't stop competition against each other, Gidney disagreed.

"The combined outfit competes with a new vigor and new strength they did not have before," replied the man who is supposed to ride herd on the national banks and defend the American system of free competition.

WASHINGTON PIPELINE

The question of segregation is troubling the CIO-AFL merger. Some AFL unions in the south are opposed to the broad CIO policy in regard to Negro membership.

Congress may abolish tax stamps for tobacco and liquor, and levy direct excise taxes instead. This has been proposed in a confidential House Ways and Means staff study.

Top government economists, including members of the Federal Reserve Board, will urge Congress to put installment credit under very strict federal control. Without control, they fear the nation's whopping $16,000,000,000 installment loans might get top-heavy and throw the nation into a business tailspin.

Sixty per cent of all American families regularly buy on the installment plan. Gen. Al Gruenther, able Atlantic pact supreme commander, is delighted that Russia's Molotov has so brutally rejected plans to unite Germany. Gruenther believes these angry words by Molotov, which have sent a chill sweeping throughout Europe, will once more unite the West and keep the North Atlantic pact from collapsing.

Until Molotov spoke out at Geneva last week, Gruenther felt our European allies were so impressed by Russia's softer words that they would scrap the Atlantic alliance within two years. Secretary Dulles cabled Eisenhower it still may be possible to salvage some limited agreement with Russia from the wreckage of the foreign ministers conference. Dulles is somewhat bewildered and stunned by Molotov's angry blast rejecting all western plans for uniting Germany. He had optimistically believed the Russians were ready to agree in principle to unite Germany, and was secretly briefing newsmen at Geneva to hail this as a great victory.

Southern Illinois Symphony Orchestra Season Begins Nov. 22

Southern Illinois' most outstanding group of organized, home-grown artists—the Southern Illinois Symphony Orchestra—begins its seventh concert season at Carbondale Tuesday, Nov. 22, with a program in honor of Finland's Jean Sibelius.

The season opening concert, beginning at 7:15 p. m. in Shryock Auditorium, will feature violin soloist John Wharton, of the SIU faculty, in Beethoven's "Romance in F" for violin and orchestra.

Climaxing the concert will be a group of three Sibelius favorites: "The Swan of Tuonela, Legend," "Valse Triste," and the famous tone poem, "Finlandia." The program has been arranged to coincide with a world wide testimonial to Sibelius on his 90th birthday.

The first half of the concert program will consist of "Overture and Allegro from 'La Sultana Suite'" by Darius Milhaud and Francois Couperin; "Four German Dances" by Mozart, and "Symphony No. 1 in C Major, Opus 21" by Beethoven.

The orchestra, organized in 1948 by conductor Maurits Kesar, chairman of the SIU Music department, is being sponsored for the third year by the Carbondale Business and Professional Women's club. Membership of the group is composed of part time musicians from all over southern Illinois.

Admission to the concert will be 50 cents. Season tickets to all three concerts scheduled for the school year are $1.

Michigan's first paper mill was established at Raisinville in 1834.

SIU Announces Summer Anthropological Field Session in Mexico

Want to spend eight weeks excavating ancient ruins in Mexico next summer?

A summer term anthropological field session in Durango, Mexico, was announced today by the Southern Illinois University Museum and the Department of Sociology and Anthropology. Dr. J. Charles Kelley, SIU Museum director, will head the field session in cooperation with an archaeologist appointed by the Mexican government.

Kelly says enrollment will be limited to 20 students who may obtain either undergraduate or graduate credit, depending upon previous experience and college status. Several student assistantships and one or more graduate assistantships will be available for those interested in earning part of their expenses. The field session will open June 18 and end August 10.

Members of the expedition will live in Durango City and excavate buildings and pyramids of a large ruin partly excavated by an SIU expedition of 1954.

Museum staff members Dr. Carroll L. Riley and Howard Winters will assist Kelly. Enrollment information may be obtained from Riley. Kelley says applications for assistantships must be received by March 15, and pre-registration for the field session must be completed by April 21.

State Ready to Keep Highways Open in Winter

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — Preparation has been completed to maintain motor traffic on Illinois state highways during the coming winter season, it was announced today by Edwin A. Rosenstone, director of Public Works and Buildings.

The department chief said the Division of Highways has readied equipment to keep open the 12,000-mile primary and 2,000-mile secondary road systems. Mechanical units include 650 chain spreaders and 1,200 snow plow equipped trucks.

Stockpiles of abrasive materials and snow and ice removal chemicals have been stored at strategic locations along the pavements. Among such supplies are 300,000 cubic yards of sand and cinders, 1,000 tons of calcium chloride and 10,000 tons of salt.

Installation of 300 miles of snow fence will be finished by Nov. 15. These barriers are erected in fields adjoining highways at spots where troublesome drifting is most likely to occur.

A regular force of 2,000 maintenance crewmen, available for normal storm clean-up work, can be doubled for around-the-clock assignment when severe conditions require the additional manpower.

Beginning Dec. 15, Rosenstone said, a 24-hour road condition bulletin service will be furnished by the highways division. Reports from ten district offices in Illinois will be cleared through Springfield central headquarters and telephoned to all radio stations within the state, press associations and other agencies concerned with the dissemination of this information. Motorists also can obtain first-hand reports at any hour of the day or night by contacting the district offices. Warnings will be issued at least eight hours in advance of imminent storms.

Keeping state highways open during the winter season normally accounts for more than than $1,500,000 of the annual maintenance cost on state highways. An average snow storm involves about two-thirds of the entire highway system.

U. S. Population Due For Big Increase

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP)—The Stanford Research Institute predicts the U. S. population will jump 35 per cent between 1954 and 1975, with a total of 221,749,000 persons compared to today's 165,000,000 plus population.

Pacific Coast states are in for the biggest part of the coming growth, according to the institute. They will show a 76 per cent growth for a total of 29,439,000 by 1975.

The Mountain States should gain some 66 per cent during the period to reach a population of 9,582,000.

California will register the largest jump—87.7 per cent—with an increase from 12,554,000 to 23,565,000.

To reach these figures the institute's economists applied birth, death, and migration rates to specific age groups. This technique, called the "cohort-survival method," is considered more accurate than strict mathematical forecasts which tend to neglect the vital factors of population growth and change.

Mrs. Bess Aldridge gave the lesson for the evening continuing the study of the American Indian.

The business session included the secretary-treasurer's report by Mrs. Bea Holland, departmental and committee reports and the selection of group prayer partners. Plans were made for a bazaar to be held Nov. 23.

The devotion was given by Mrs. Emma Hibbs, with scripture readings from Psalm 95 and 96. The worship service was brought to a close with prayer by Mrs. Bess Aldridge.

Announcements were made and the meeting closed with prayer by Rev. E. C. Fisher.

Refreshments of pumpkin pie with whipped cream, coffee and apple cider were served by the hostesses to those already mentioned and to the following:

Mrs. Elsie Dudley, Mr. and Mrs. Kestner Wallace and daughter, Willia Le Ann, Mrs. Gladys Aldridge, Judy Nelson, Miss Beulah Lievers, Mrs. Gladys O'Connor, Mrs. Margie Alexander, Mrs. Anna Rhine, Janet Fisher, and Rev. and Mrs. E. C. Fisher. Guests included Mrs. Bonnie Proffitt and son, Carl.

The December meeting will be at the home of Miss Beulah Lievers.

Fidelis Class Meets

With Mrs. Wilma Simpson
The Fidelis Sunday school class of McKinley Baptist church met Tuesday evening, Nov. 15, at the home of Mrs. Wilma Simpson.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Carol Holloway. Mrs. Betty Arms led in the opening prayer. During the business meeting a committee was appointed to see that the Christmas basket was filled and given to some needy family. Names were drawn for mystery pals for the coming year.

Aleta Pankey gave a devotion urging everyone to be thankful for the things God has given them. Myrna Fife led in the closing prayer.

Delicious refreshments were served to the following besides those already mentioned: Carsa Hedger, Barbara Crabb, Barbara Grisham and Pauletta, Joanne McNew, Betty Pool and Mrs. June Martin, teacher.

On Hand: Leather Gloves That Really Wash

Leather gloves that launder with no loss of color or stiffening of leather are easy on the fashion budget. These show a slim and tapered look, an understated effect. Cameo-beige glove (upper left) has stem-and-leaf design. Kid glove (upper center) is in lemon-peel color piped in black with black-and-yellow buttons at the wrist. Glove with winged cuff (upper right) is fawn-colored with cuff in color called golden sable.

Paper-thin glaze kid glove (lower left) for after-five wear is in shocking pink with wreath of self-leather flowerlets at top. Classic leather suit glove (lower center) is hand-sewn in ginger-toned suede. Band-and-bow is used at wrist (lower right) of glove in limoges blue kid. All gloves shown here are completely washable. White launder-leather gloves can be washed after each wearing for complete freshness.

Mrs. Morris Skaggs Gives Report on Epsilon Province Meeting

At the regular business meeting Monday evening of Delta Alpha chapter of Delta Theta Tau sorority, Mrs. Morris Skaggs reported on the Epsilon Province convention held Nov. 12-13 at the Sheraton hotel in St. Louis.

During the business session Saturday Mrs. Betty Garrett of Anna was installed as Province chairman, and a donation of $500 toward a $3,700 grant was given to further research in multiple sclerosis at Washington university. It was announced that $26.07 was the amount spent per capita in philanthropic work during the past year for a grand total of $24,768.21 for Epsilon Province. Harrisburg ranked fifth in the collections for national charity drives which is the cancer drive that the local chapter of Delta Theta Tau conducts each year.

The "Celestial Regale" banquet on Saturday evening and the "Space Station" brunch were the social climax to the convention theme, "Out of This World."

Others attending from Harrisburg with Mrs. Skaggs, who was the delegate, were Mrs. John Humm, Mrs. Nelson Pankey and Barbara Thompson.

The business meeting of Delta Alpha chapter was completed with the report of the birthday calendar by Mrs. John Foster, and the plans for inspection which will be held Dec. 10 with Mrs. Bernard Gola, national vice president of Delta Theta Tau, from Belleville, the inspecting officer.

XXV

Facing us were five steel doorways of the powder magazines. The most conspicuous was the one in the middle, concealed behind its sloping mound of stones.

I was puzzled, and so was Lynch and Reg's face wore the same look of mystification.

"The light was tricky, of course," he said thoughtfully, "and there was a good bit going on. But I have the recollection that these stones were not against the middle door, but against the . . . let's see . . . the fourth from the left. Yes, I'm sure!"

"Quite," said Lynch.

"I too," said Lily.

"Pixies?" inquired Lily, unhelpfully.

We approached the fourth door. "Our doubts, you see," observed Lynch in his most irritating classroom manner, "are disposed of. This door and this stone frame around it are clearly less weathered than the rest. The stones which must have been removed after we returned to the yacht last night, was evidently in place for some time."

Dibble reached out and rapped the steel door with his knuckles. "A sturdy bit of hardware. Just how do we get in?"

Lynch's moment had come. I had been expecting something of the sort for the last half hour. He carefully set down the little bag he had been carrying. Then with the air of a prestidigitator he reached into a trousers' pocket—and with a final triumphant gesture held before our admiring eyes—a key.

The key was a good six inches long. The whaddy-callsit, the bumps and cuts at its business end, were extremely complicated.

"I was sorry," said Lynch roughly, "to keep you waiting this morning. But it belatedly occurred to me that Meer might have something like this. It is a safe assumption this was meticulously kept in the file pertaining to this fortress ever since 1915. It was in the small drawer in Meer's bedside table." Lynch chuckled.

"I just thought of something," said Lily. "Last night when Braun called him, Siggy had something in the pocket of his bathrobe. I have no idea what, of course, but now I think it was more like two something. I distinctly heard a click. One could have been this key."

Lynch opened his bag and took out a small copper oil can. Inserting it in the keyhole he squirted upwards, downwards and sideways. Not until then did he try the key.

With a satisfying little sound the lock clicked back. Lynch pushed with his spread palm and the heavy door began to open.

We were in an almost cubicle chamber, its walls of skillfully mortared stone. It was as empty as the inside of a bass drum. There were a few greenish stains where dampness had seeped in, but the magazine was surprisingly dry.

Through the years, though, a certain amount of sand and dust had been wind-driven under the door and had distributed itself in a fine film over the floor.

It seemed to me the thin layer of sand had been disturbed. There were traces as if there had been recent movement on it. Certainly there was nothing that could be called footprints.

I looked down where my own feet had trod. There was that same indeterminate effect. Anyone who followed us would be equally hard put to it to swear that there had been any intrusion in this silent chamber. The skin of gritty dust was absolutely dry.

Lily Wyndam, with no flashlight of her own, had wandered back into the sunlight outside. I heard her call in a low voice, without turning.

"Yoo-hoo. Don't look now but we are not alone."

I stuck my head out. Our wrestling companion of the night before was standing perhaps 20 yards away behind the unfinished wall.

He must be six foot six—and was built to scale. He had the face of a madman, as if the sight of so many of us making free of this particular preserve of his was too much for him.

I called to Lynch and Dibble. "Siegfried's little friend has turned up again. Come out casually. Reg, suppose you take that gun out. Don't point it at him. Just show it. Lily, wave to him. A friendly wave. And smile."

Lily did as she was bid. She also took off her sunglasses.

The face broke into a vacant grin. One big paw waved back.

"Lily," I said in a low voice, "start walking over toward him as if you wanted to make friends. Mental deficiencies are sometimes deadly afraid of women."

Lily flicked her head around just long enough to flash me a baleful glare. "A good thing you don't want to go shark fishing. You'd use me as bait."

But she started toward him. The bearded giant gaped at her.

A deep, musical laugh above us made us spin around. The tall Haitian was standing on the parapet immediately over our heads taking it all in.

The big man saw him and his smile froze. The Haitian flapped his long hands toward him in a shooping gesture. Like a puppet in a Punch and Judy show the man vanished behind the wall.

"Who is he?" I called in French. "Qui! Ca, c'est gros-oiseau!"

"Vogel!" exclaimed Lynch.

"Bird!" in German and French. (To Be Continued)

Lakeview, Lincoln Home Bureau Units Hold Joint Meeting at Carrier Mills

The Lakeview Home Bureau unit of Carrier Mills was host at a joint meeting with the Lincoln unit of Harrisburg on Monday evening, Nov. 14. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Geneva Evans in Carrier Mills.

The meeting opened with a get-acquainted game, "Know your Neighbor." Mrs. Irene Bush, guest of the Lincoln unit, won the prize for getting the most information regarding her neighbor.

There was a brief discussion concerning some planned craft projects including making of gloves and braiding rugs.

Membership drive for November and December was stressed pointing up the goal of two new members for each unit.

One new member, Mrs. Wilma Morgan of Harrisburg, joined the Lincoln unit.

A short social period followed after which delicious refreshments of homemade angel food cake, sherbet and coffee were served.
